Atlantic Electropoise: Gentlemen—For the past

wrock of her former self that life was almost deceived of Her prevous system was almost despaired of. Her nervous system was almost en-tirely destroyed, and the slightest noise would throw her into a nervous spasm, which would last for hours. Modical skill failed to bring any re-

Through the recommendation of an eminent divine we were induced to try the Electropoise. After a persistent use of the instrument, the effect has been wonderful. Her nervous system has been restored to its almost normal condition; her direction is wonderfully improved; she is rapidly gaining in flesh; and, upon the whole, is making a rapid recovery, which speaks volumes for the wonderful carative powers of the Electropoise, as her case was considered hopeles. If any are skeptical on the subject, let them try the Electropoise, and its wonderful powers will quickly dispel all doubt. Yours truly, W.M. PROPST.

Plunger Wells Fails.

A dispatch from Monte Carlo, dated J-r. 7th, says : "Mr. Hill Wells, the calebrated English plunger, turned up again to-night at the gaming tables. His system, however, went wrong this time, and after losing 80, 000!. be went to get more money, but did not reappear.

Mr. Wells, the lucky Londoner. has been creating a sensation in Monte Carlo both by his winnings and his losings. In July, last year, be won $160,000. He returned and in November closed his operations with acother gain of $140,000. On one particular night in the first week in November be carried off $50,000, breaking the bank five times in the course of the evening.

On that memorable night (it was Filday night, by the way) when Mr. 'Bone-Chance' Wells had before him on the green ables a pile of thousand-franc notes a foot and a haif high, he never lost his head at play, and afterward slept soundly with them under his pillow in a room at the Hotel de Paris, overlocking the Place du Casino.

In a long talk with Mr. Wells when be rose from the gambling table that evening he was asked for the secret of his success. He replied that this was the result of a system of his own, which he had been working out for years, and after patiently watching the behavior of the table. He was now putting it into actual practice. He thought its value had been fully tested during its trials of the past week and of July last. Asked, "if this be infallible, why not go on and clear out the back?"

"Because," repiled Mr. Wells, "the physical strain is beyond my strength. I have been sitting da'ly from tweive noon till elevan at night playing without a break, and I am worn out. But I have decided to come again shortly. I have implicit faith in my spacem and am perfectly sure I can win

The above special cable dispatch fom Monte Carlo, however, proves that his "aye em" te not infamible

Mr. Wells declined to give to the world n general and players in particular the advantages of his system Players, he said, an watched him and tried to do likewise. But the great majority had not pluck ecough to follow him even when they saw him win ping. His system required $30,000 capital, as it must for the most part be played with the maximum stakes of 5,000f or 12,000f, so as to enable the player to withstand a considerable run of of adverse luck. He acknowledged that one of his principal points was to follow the table and catch "runs" or "series," as on two nights, when with 12, (00% on each of two chances he was able to Most Valuable Building Lots Again, at one o'clock on the Saturday fol-lowing his great coup, he had taken all the one hundred and the one thousand franc bank notes supplied to the trante-et-quarante table, and the crouplers were obliged to pay one deal in small odd notes and rolls of gold until another £4,000 had been brought by the cashier.

All this naturally afforded splendid sport for the speciators, who rejoiced at so successful an attack upon the enemy. Mr. Wells added that when the cards were run-12 000% on each of his chances. He always insured against a "refait" (the bank's odd chance); and though this cost him at the rate of one per cent, upon his stakes. rate of one per cent. upon his stakes—over $5 000 a day—he believed it paid him. Then be never temp'ed good Dame Fortune too far, and sent off his winnings to London daily, and left when his luck turned. That, he admitted, was a great help, even to this system of his, and finding on Saturday that he was making no progress he packed up h's portmanteau and quietly took train for

THAT EULL CASE. - The celebrated case of the Commonwealth against Dr. W. A. Richeson for putting a blind bull on the track of the Norfolk and Western Railroad last October, with a view to recover damages, was concluded at Lexington yesterday, the jury bringing in a verdict of guilty and fixing his term of imprisonment at 18 months in the penitentiary. Bicheson is a doctor, and at the time the crime was committed was proprietor of a hotel and at the same time a large cattle raiser. He employed his bartender, S. J. Campbell, to strap the bull to the track. Campbell, hearing that detectives were on his track, turned State's evidence, and it was through his tes-timony that Richeson was convicted.
